Our History

Prior to the settlement of High Level, this region was inhabited by several First Nations communities, including the Dene Tha' and Beaver First Nations. In 1788, a fur trading post was established on the Peace River near present-day Fort Vermilion. This marked the beginning of the region's fur trade. Before this area was surrounded by trees, it was an open grassland that was primarily used by the Dene Tha' to hunt and trap for items to trade. The original name of High Level was "Tloc Moi," which translates to Hay Meadow.

1946

The Mackenzie Highway was completed for limited traffic. High Level's convenient location made it the perfect place to stop for fuel on the way to the NWT.

1963

The beginning of the "big boom" after the arrival of the Great Slave Railway and the discovery of oil and gas in the region. High Level was declared a new town on June 1, 1965, with a population of 754 people. The appointed board of administration included Albert McClarty, Donald Edgar, and Leonard Gurel, with McClarty as chairperson. The first Town Hall was constructed in the summer of 1965.

1965

High Level was declared a new town on June 1, 1965, with a population of 754 people. The appointed board of administration included Albert McClarty, Donald Edgar, and Leonard Gurel, with McClarty as chairperson. The first Town Hall was constructed in the summer of 1965.

High Level Grain Elevator

The first load of grain was delivered to the AB Pacific Grain Elevator in town on November 2, 1964. This elevator was the most northerly elevator in the world. A new elevator was recently built in 2020. It includes 32,000 metric tonnes of storage space and will be capable of loading 135 cars. High Level is still home to the most northerly grain elevator!

1973

High Level's first hospital, the High Level Community Health Centre, opened in June of 1973. It housed a 25-bed hospital, health unit, mental health services, and municipal nursing services. This Hospital was later renovated in 2006 and is now the home of the High Level Town Hall.

1976

The Town adopted the four arrow symbol as its logo

1983

On August 3, 1983, High Level was officially incorporated as a town with a population of 2,673. As an official town, High Level also elected its first mayor, Robert E. Walter.

1991

The Mackenzie Crossroads Museum and Visitors Centre held its grand opening. Plans for the museum had been in the works since 1977. The Museum still operates in the summer from Victoria Day long weekend to Labour Day long weekend.

1996

Cellular telephone services arrived in High Level and area.

2000

Work began on the Northwest Health Centre. It officially opened September 29, 2004

2005

The totem pole from the minimum security facility at Footner Lake was restored and erected at the Mackenzie Crossroads Museum and Visitors Centre.

2006

High Level's population reached 3,887 people!

2013

High Level's First Female Mayor was elected in 2013! Crystal McAteer remains in office today.

2015

High Level celebrated its 50th anniversary on June 13. Events included a block party, town tours, and a concert featuring the band Chilliwack.

2019

The Chuckegg Creek Wildfire forced the town to evacuate on May 20th for two weeks. Hundreds of firefighters flew in from all over the world to help fight the fire and save the town. After it was determined there was no longer a threat to High Level, residents were welcomed home on June 3rd.

TOGETHER WE STAND

High level is proud of its diverse community and cultures. We recognize that the Town sits on the traditional lands of the Beaver, the Dene Tha', and the Cree First Nations, as well as the Metis Nation.

Many have come to work and settle in this thriving community. Families are able to connect through The Village – Mackenzie Family Resource Network. Seniors can now retire in the beautiful Mackenzie House, built in 2017, instead of having to move away.

We found creative ways to bring our community together through the Chuckegg Creek Wildfire that threatened our community in 2019 and throughout the pandemic. The Town of High Level continues to host events and programs.

Mackenzie Crossroads Museum and Visitor Centre

The Mackenzie Crossroads Museum and Visitor Centre is open from Victoria Day long weekend to Labour Day long weekend.

 (780) 926-4811

The iconic totem pole located outside the Museum was hand-carved by Ernest Chowace before 2005.

Malcom Gunson, a High Level local, restored the Totem Pole in 2008 and it was later installed at the Mackenzie Crossroads Museum & Visitor Centre.

The Museum aims to promote local culture and history from the area by collecting, preserving, and exhibiting artifacts. The Visitor Information Centre has an extensive array of local, regional, provincial, and national travel information. Community members and visitors alike can access Town of High Level information packages or vacation planning brochures and maps.

The Museum features a gift shop that carries local hand-crafted and authentic Indigenous items. We also sell the works of local artisans and photographers, as well as souvenir items.

The Mackenzie Crossroads Museum celebrated its 30th Anniversary in 2021!

A logo "refresh" contest was held to commemorate the milestone! Entrants were challenged to take key themes from the original logo, which included trees, a wagon wheel, fencing, and the sun or moon, and refresh them into a new revamped logo. Our new logo design (left), was created by Darlene Derksen.
